

Privacy in the home from unknown and un-wanted telemarketers and solicitors should be banned. I realize they must make a living, but there's got to be a way without disturbing citizens within their homes. Why don't they solicit other public entities. What do governmental representatives do when they get such calls? I find all of these calls to be agitating... I have enjoyed my privacy immensely and would like it to continue.